McGUIRE'S
SPANISH HAIR DRESSER
FOR PROMOTING THE GROWTH, BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR,
And rendering it dark and glossy. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. The use of this oil as a hair dresser has been universal in every section of the country in the Spanish Main for centuries. No preparation of art could give that elegant luxuriance and abundance of hair which have so often been the admiration of travelers in Spain. This oil is highly and delicately perfumed, forming an article unrivaled in excellence and upon which the Spanish people for many years have set its seal of enduring approval.

McGUIRE'S
Mexican Wild Flowers Shampoo Lotion
For removing dandruff and scurf from the head, whitening and perfuming the skin. This article is entirely different from anything of the kind ever offered in this country and is warranted free from all poisonous substances. Its valuable lotion was used by the Emperor Maximilian and Empress Carlotta of Mexico, and universally used by Mexicans for three hundred years. As a wash for the head—it is cooling, cleansing and refreshing.—When thus used it at once relieves headache.

McGUIRE'S
WILD FLOWERS FOR THE TEETH.
All those who are in favor of white teeth and a pleasant and perfumed breath, should at once use McGuire's Wild Flowers for the Teeth. All these preparations are put up in the most elegant and ornamental manner. We make no exception in saying that they are an ornament to a lady's toilet table, and none complete without them. Warranted satisfactory or money refunded. Desires will bear this in mind. Sold by all respectable Druggists in the United States and Canadas. Address orders to

THERE ARE NO TEARS IN HEAVEN

The author of the appended lines, Mr. John T. Wartz, conferred a benefit on society, and on the religious world at large, when he set himself down to write a poem which intuition taught him would make every one a holier and better man, after he, reads it:

I met a child, his feet were bare,
His weak frame shivered with the cold;
His youthful brow was knit with care.
His flashing eye his sorrow told.
Said I, "Poor boy, why weepest thou?"
"My parents both are dead," he said:
"I have not where to lay my head;
O, I am lone and friendless now!"
Not friendless, child; a Friend on high
For you his gracious blood was given;
Cheer up, and bid each tear be dry—
"There are no tears in Heaven."

I saw a man in life's gay noon
Stand weeping o'er his young bride's bier:
"And must we part," he cried, "so soon!"
As down his cheek there rolled a tear;
"Heart broken one," said I, "weep not!"
"Weep not!" in accents wild he cried.
"But yesterday my young love died!
And shall she be so soon forgot?"
Forgotten! No, still let her love
Sustain thy heart with anguish riven;
Strive thou to meet thy bride above,
And dry thy tears in Heaven.

I saw a gentle mother weep,
As to her throbbing heart she prest
An infant seemingly asleep
On its kind mother's shelt'ring breast.
"Fair one," said I, "pray weep no more."
Sobbed she, "the ideal of my hope
I now am called to render up;
My babe has reached death's gloomy shore"
Young mother, yield no more to grief,
Nor be by passion's tempest driven,
But find in these sweet words relief,
"There are no tears in Heaven."

Poor traveler o'er life's troubled wave—
Cast down by grief, o'erwhelmed by care,
There is an arm above can save,
Then yield not thou to fell despair.
Look upward, mourners, look above!
What though the thunders echo loud;
The sun shines bright beyond the cloud,
Then trust to thy Redeemer's love.
Where'er thy lot in life be cast,
Whate'er of toil or woe be given—
Be firm—remember to the last,
"There are no tears in Heaven,"

Parents and Teachers.

Why do we hear so many complaints of parents regarding the progress of their children in their studies at school? Who is to blame? These, together with several other questions relating to the success or failure of many of our teachers in this, as well as many other counties, we propose to take up and ventilate for the purpose of showing where and when "the voice of the people" is frequently in error.

Take first, for example, our first question; why do we hear so many complaints against teachers, among which are generally found the accusations of incompetency and neglect?

The last two accusations are pretty heavy ones, wherewith to charge a teacher; charges which materially affect his success as a teacher, his success in life, and parents should inquire well into particulars before preferring such a damaging charge against the young educators of our land.

Upon perceiving that their children have not made the best progress during the term just closed, parents should consider how much time they lost; whether they attended right straight along as they should have done, or whether, as is often the case, they were absent from their classes about every other day, being in attendance, probably, two-thirds of the term.

I have had scholars who counted themselves pretty regular scholars, and at the end of the term would be surprised to learn that they had been absent perhaps nearly one-third of the session.

Now, cannot people of this enlightened age, see at once that it is folly to expect their children to make rapid or even good progress at school, when such attendance is given? And yet they will say, "our teacher of last winter wasn't worth much; didn't teach our children scarcely anything; don't think he is very much of a scholar:" laying the entire blame upon the poor pedagogue, charging him with incompetency and neglect, never once supposing that they might probably be to blame, for not seeing that their little ones attended regularly, as it is generally found that when a scholar's progress has been slow you can trace the cause back to bad attendance.

Give the teacher half a chance, send your children regularly to school, and then it is time to complain of your teacher. If parents would do their duty in this respect we would hear fewer complaints, hear of fewer unsuccessful teachers; for how in the name of all that is educational, can a teacher teach an absent scholar? Let parents think of this, and remember, too, that there is but one Being who is almighty, and although we are made in His likeness we have few of His high attributes.

The next murmur we hear is, "our John was reading in the Fifth Reader, and our new teacher had the impudence (not the common sense) to turn him back to the Third; it is easily seen he does not know much—I just halt think he can't read in the Fifth himself and that is the reason he turned our John back."

Such foolish ideas are all too prevalent in this section of our State when we take into consideration that this is the 19th century. Just so, "John" is "going through his books," whether cutting through them, or eating through them, it is all right; the teacher is commended and "John" is learning fast—he is almost through the Sixth Reader, and expects to get through the Seventh yet, this winter.

While one teacher is receiving unmerited praise for allowing his pupils to advance, or seem to advance, faster than they should, another one is censured for restraining a pupil and keeping him in a proper text-book, and if needs be, turning him back to where he ought to be.

Parents will stay away from the school all winter—never show their faces inside of their school, and as a natural consequence know nothing about how their children are getting along, whether they are really reading in the Fifth Reader, or whether, as is frequently the case, they are rendering the author's pieces in such a murderous manner as to almost make him (if dead) rise from his tomb in indignation, and then complain about something they know nothing about.

A word to parents. Don't say you have no time to visit your school—take a little of the time you spend in talking politics upon the street corners prating about the great bug bear "People's League" or some other equally useless conversation, if you are of the masculine persuasion; if a lady, take a small portion of the time you spend leisurely retailing to your neighbor the last tit-bit of sensational gossip; take part of this misspent time and devote it to your own affairs; drop in at your school once a week and see how things are moving. The teacher is always glad to see you, unless you come with a club or broomstick in your hand. It encourages him on in his work to see that parents do care how their children are progressing. The children are always pleased to see you and will make extra exertions in your presence to show you how much they are learning or have learned.

Then let me say to the mothers and fathers of the little ones who attend my school, as well as to every mother and father in the county who has a child at school—visit your child's school and see how he is progressing. Make your estimate of the teacher's qualifications there and then, and do not pretend to sit in judgment upon that you have not seen, nor condemn that which you have not heard. QUIS.

AMERICAN GIRLS.—A European letter-writer says of American girls in Europe: "I do not wish to undervalue English beauty, which is most satisfactory and enduring, and most of which will wash. But I confess that American beauty from New York to New Orleans has spoiled my eyes for any other. I fear you do not half appreciate them at home. Here they admire and envy them—that is, the men admire and the women envy. On the Continent they rave about them. Half a dozen American belles send a whole German town distracted. It is not only their beauty and grace, but their wit, spirit, and happy audacity. The continental customs favor their triumphs. No girl over there ever dares to say her soul is her own—let alone her body. An American girl, on the contrary, asserts her freedom, goes wherever she pleases, talks with every one she cares to talk with, says du to a German at the first introduction, and orders him about just—just as she would do at home. He is overwhelmed and astounded, but all the more delighted. He tells his friends that the beautiful girl he waltzed with said du to him, and told him to bring her a glass of water, which sets them all crazy to be introduced to her, hear her say du to them, and be made water-carriers likewise. Next day the whole town is talking about her, and staring at her. The women are in a rage; but the result is the conviction that America must be a great country, increased emigration, and the consequent progress of civilization."

A bride in Cheatham county, Tenn. arrayed for the altar, concluded to marry an old lover who came hurridly to see the ceremony, and she really did it.

Household Saints.

BY GRACE GREENWOOD.

Saint James.

The chronicle of this blessed saint must be sad—but it shall be brief.

James Harris was a native of that part of the great State of Illinois known as Egypt. He entered upon his saintship gradually, "through much tribulation," and long years of severe domestic discipline. To the wife of his bosom was entrusted the charge of perfecting James in the Christian graces of patience, self-restraint and abnegation. Avenger of her sex, hers was a spirit born to subjugate and command. With more beauty, she had been the new Cleopatra of the new Egypt. She had already been twice widowed. Her first husband, it was said, had gone off with the chills, and her second with the Mormons. James was her third. On him her system and experience soon told. He had been high-tempered; he grew meek.—He had been talkative; he grew taciturn. He had been fond of speaking his mind and "blazing away;" he seemed to have no longer a mind to speak—his "hot and mounting spirit" was quenched! He wisely gave over "kicking against the pricks" of a more urgent and masterful will than his own; he yielded under a stronger hand; he gave way before a keener tongue.—When hard and stinging words were hailed upon him, he took refuge in silence.

Thus it came, that the good man took for his motto the words of a James of old time: "If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, this man's religion is vain."

But to his wife's case he applied another text, from the same sacred writer: "The tongue can no man tame."

And when things even harder than words came—as come they did, I grieve to say—Cleopatra-like buffets, and Elizabethan boxes, he bore these also, like a Christian and a philosopher.

When remonstrated with for an excess of Socratean virtue, he was wont to reply: "Why, you see, it don't hurt me, and it does Hannah a power of good. Besides, what's the use of showing fight, when you know you'll have to knock under at last?"

When a sympathizing friend advised him to seek legal protection and deliverance—in other words, to apply for a divorce, on the ground of cruel treatment, he mournfully shook his head, saying: "I can't say as I think it would be right, neighbor. I really meant what I said when I took my wife 'for better, for worse;' and I can't go back on my word, if it should prove all 'for worse.' But it won't, you see. Hannah's a first rate cook. Her corn-dodgers can't be beat."

Magnanimous Saint James!

Yet he dwelt nigh onto the borders of Indiana! At times, when the flesh was weak, I will not say that he cast no wistful looks toward that goodly land of divorce; but he never crossed the fatal State-line.

Strange to say, as the spirit of her husband became subdued and moulded to her will, Mrs. Hannah Harris fell into a low and melancholy state. Life seemed to have lost its spice and flavor. She gradually declined into consumption, of the sort called "lingering." Saint James, becoming alarmed, made a journey all the way to Chicago for the best medical advice. To make sure of something, he decided "to try all sorts of Doctors." He consulted Allopaths, Homœopaths, Eclectics, Electrics, and Mediums. No two agreed in their diagnoses; but each one predicted a fatal termination in case his system was not strictly adhered to. The spiritual medium saw, in a trance, poor Hannah released, and her husband remarried. Saint James had thought he was prepared for the worst.

It was during this visit that Saint James chanced upon his famous parrot, a bird of remarkable volubility and sharpness of speech—in fact, a feathered virago. Reminded of home, the thought struck him that this would be a pretty present for his poor wife, and that it might even have a salutary influence on her unhappy moral infirmity—somewhat on the great principle of Hahnemann. So he bought the unlovely fowl of a guileless Israelite, who held it dear and sold it cheap.

Saint James did not stay long in Chicago. That wonderful city was too full of temptations, even for him. It was the season when theatres and courts were in full blast. There were Black Crooks by night, and divorces by day.

Saint James returned home laden with prescriptions and specifics. Every pocket bristled with bottles, cataplasms lurked in his hat, he rattled with pill boxes, and drugged the very air as he walked. Alas! all were in vain. Even the parrot failed in its moral mission, though, having taken to contradicting the sick woman, it revived her for a time. Then she sunk, and continued to decline alarmingly for some eighteen months. Then, one evening, her husband saw a softened, solemn look on her face, strange to behold.

"James," she said, "I do hope you'll repent of your sins, and meet me in Heaven."

"O, Hannah!" he cried, "don't talk so!—don't now!"

She went off some time that night, unawares, in her sleep.

Saint James afterward expressed a belief that this was the only way Hannah could have been taken anywhere against her will.

Saint James was sadly cut up. People said there was no knowing what he would have done in the first days of his bereavement had it not been for the poll parrot. The bird had "a tongue with a tang," and had caught many of the old familiar expressions, and much of the style of her deceased mistress.

Saint James laid his Hannah to rest under a Balm-of-Gilead tree, and planted her grave with heart's-ease. He remained faithful to her memory.—Hearth and Home.

Legend of a Musket.

Mark Twain tells the following story related by a fellow passenger, who being bantered at his timidity, said he had never been scared since he loaded an old Queen Anna musket for his father, whereupon he gave the following:

"You see the old man was trying to teach me to shoot beasts that tore up the young corn and things, so that I could be of some use about the farm, because I wasn't big enough to do much. My gun was a single-shot gun, and the old man carried an old Queen Anna musket that weighed a ton, made a report like a thunder-clap and kicked like a mule. The old man wanted me to shoot the musket sometimes but I was afraid. One day though I got her down, and so I took her to the hired man and asked him how to load her, because it was out in the field. Hiram said:

"Do you see those marks on the stock—an X and a V on each side of the Queen's Crown. Well, that means ten balls and five slugs—that's her load."

"But how much powder?"

"Oh, it don't matter, put in three or four handfulls."

So I loaded her up that way, and it was an awful charge—I had sense enough to see that, and started out.—I leveled her on a good many blackbirds; but every time I went to pull the trigger, I shut my eyes and winked. I was afraid of her kick. Towards sundown I fetched up at the house, and there was the old man resting on the porch."

"Been out hunting have you?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did you kill?"

"I didn't kill anything, sir; I didn't shoot her off; was afraid she would kick." I knew blamed well she would.

"Gim me that gun," the old man said, as mad as sin.

And he took aim at a sapling on the other side of the road, and I began to drop back out of danger. And the next moment I heard an earthquake, and the Queen Anne whirling end over end in the air, and the old man whirling round and round on one heel, with one leg up and both hands on his jaw, and the bark flying from the sapling like as if there was a hail storm. The old man's jaw turned black and blue and he had to lay up for three days. Cholera, nor anything else, can scare me the way I was scared that time.

☞ The great ice manufactory at New Orleans is one of the wonders of the age, yet its processes of converting distilled water into solid blocks of crystal ice are said to be so simple as not to beget surprise. Not very much space is required for the purpose, and the hull of a ship, it is said, can be used quite as advantageously as a building upon shore. The water can be distilled from the ocean brine, and the very best quality of ice manufactured, at a cost, in most localities, much less than the natural article can be furnished for.

Papa—"How is it, Alice, that you never get a prize at school?" Mamma—"And that your friend Louisa Sharp gets so many?" Alice (innocently)—"Ah! Louisa Sharp has got such clever parents."

An intelligent gentleman from Germany, on his first visit to an American church, had a contribution box with a hole in the top presented to him, whispered to the collector, "I don't got mein bapers, and can't vote."

The way the Parisian breaks an "engagement" he is getting tired with is to mail his lady a note saying: "I know all! Adieu." Usually there is enough to be known, if he doesn't know it, and no fuss is made.

"Walter," said a fastidious gentleman, oxhibiting a singular looking object on the soup-ladle. "Waiter, do you know what that is, sir?" "That, sir, looks like a mouse, sir. We often find them in the soup, sir. No extra charge, sir."

A story is told of a young lady teacher at a Sunday school, who, a few Sundays ago asked a youngster what was matrimony. He mistook the question for purgatory, and promptly answered, "A place or state of punishment in this life where souls suffer for a short time before they go to Heaven.

A Sunday-school teacher was giving a lesson on Ruth. She wanted to bring out the kindness of Boaz in commanding the reapers to drop larger handfuls of wheat. "Now children," she said, "Boaz did another very nice thing for Ruth; can you tell me what it was?" "Married her!" said one of the boys.

One of the female clerks recently dismissed from the Treasury Department at Washington, called there to ascertain if the demand of a Congressman that she should be reinstated would be successful. "I must know at once," said she, "for I have an offer of marriage, and although I don't fancy the man, if I can't get reinstated I must accept."

One cold winter night some twenty-five years ago, a couple appeared under the window of a squire in Washington county, New York, and called for him. The squire got out of bed and asked what they wanted. "Want to get married." "Marry and be darned," said the squire and shut the window. It was a short ceremony, but they considered it as sufficient, and are living together as man and wife.

The Globe.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Wednesday morning, Dec. 8, 1869

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

The "Globe" has the largest number of readers of any other paper published in the county. Advertisers should remember this.

A Maine newspaper writer asserts that the citizens of that State have lost at least $1,000,000 by petroleum speculations in Canada and Pennsylvania. We know some people who don't live in Maine, who have left some of their surplus cash in the petroleum bubble.

SECRETARY BOUTWELL last week refused to sell gold for less than $1 22. The reason assigned is, that the gold gamblers put the precious metal down purposely until Boutwell had sold his weekly installment, then they would have "rushed" it up again; but the Secretary was too sharp for them.

THE Government works, at Harper's Ferry, Va., were sold at auction on the 30th of November. For the musket factory $176,000 was received, and for the rifle factory $80,000. The sale includes the buildings, grounds, and the magnificent water power attached to them. The purchasers will use the buildings for manufactories.

NEARLY five years have elapsed since the last rebel grounded his arms, and yet there are to-day lying around loose in the various departments at Washington and elsewhere upward of one hundred thousand applications for pensions, the most of which were filed either during or immediately after the close of the war. What is the cause of the delay in paying these pensions to our Nation's gallant defenders, or their survivors?

☞"The Ring in this county, known as the People's League, has already given over this Legislative district to the Democrats for one year."—Guerrilla Organ.

That's an honest admission, Mr. Cremer—if you keep on improving in the ways of truth, you will soon be able to publish the whole truth,—that Orlady is Chief of the League and that your paper is its organ. The medicine "Robert the Scribe" is giving you in small doses is having some effect.

☞"We have been only a voter for a series of years last past."—Cremer.

And because you could not get one of the best offices in the county for being only a voter you would try to destroy your party? And to day, while you are individually enjoying the profits of a fat party office which should only have been given to a true party man, you are continuing your guerrilla efforts to injure the political influence of men who have always labored more earnestly at a greater expense than any of your guerrilla clan for the success of the party. "Only a voter for a series of years last past,"—and yet you want to dictate to the hard workers in the party how they shall work to give you and your kind, and the Democrats, all the offices. Every Andy Johnson will have his days—we had ours—you and your clan shall have yours.

☞Parson Brownlow, of Tennessee, one of the "red-hottest" radical Republicans in the country, and who, some years ago declared that "hell would freeze over before he joined the Democratic party," has given the lie to all his past life, and committed political suicide, by striking hands with the Democratic party. Such, at least is our intelligence from Tennessee at this writing.

We can hardly believe, however, that an old man, tottering on the verge of the grave, would so stultify himself in almost his last hours, as to commit an act that would forever hand his name down in history, as an ingrate and an apostate to his party and his country in the very last moments of his life, after that party had given him all that he has and made him all that he is. Go in peace, and may the spirits of the murdered defenders of our country let your soul rest in peace.

THE School Teachers, all over the country, are getting restive under the low pay system to which they are subjected. At Harrisburg they threaten to strike. In Philadelphia, the niggardly system is being exposed. It is shown by a report of a Committee of the School Board that Female teachers receive less pay than female cooks and the better order of servant girls. The pay in Philadelphia for female teachers of the lowest grade is $6 92 per week, or from $2 to $3 exclusive of boarding. Country towns and districts hardly give so much.

In his sermon on Thanksgiving day, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher referred to this niggardly pay of teachers, and among other things said:—"The public school was where the children of all classes stood on a common level; it was where the children of each generation stood alike. Their feet must rest there; then let them shoot their heads as high as they pleased. Those schools must not only be common, free and superior, but they must be better than the private schools. In nothing could the public afford to be less penurious. The best teachers must be secured and receive adequate compensation for their services. This was political wisdom."

Good Looking Figures.

Under the above caption, the New York Tribune so faithfully portrays the financial condition of the country under the Republican administration, as well as the dark forebodings and dismal prophesies of the pro-rebel Democracy, that we make no excuse for transferring it to our columns, for we, too, condole with the opposition. In spite of Democratic desires and predictions, this perverse generation of working Americans insist that they are not ruined, and that the country shall not go to perdition. Worse than all, the stubborn Administration of President Grant refuses to be a failure—insists, indeed, upon being a magnificent success.

Nine months ago the Democratic journals were jubilant with prophesies of the coming bankruptcy of the nation. Ruin of the credit they thought would be equivalent to Democratic success; and they were glad, and made merry in their hearts. But the stubborn President insisted on retrenchment and economy, cut off needless expenses, and actually began to pay off the debt—slowly, to be sure, but in appreciable quantity. The Democracy were disgusted; their thunder was taken away; they tried one misrepresentation after another, about railroad bonds, about money in the Treasury, about canceled bonds and currency. Still the reduction of the debt went on. Gold went down, and credit went up. The elections came—they did not carry Ohio, did not carry Minnesota, and did not honestly carry New-York.

As the Opposition is profound on figures, we offer a few specimens for their consideration. The actual reduction of the public debt since Gen. Grant was placed at the helm, is $71,903,525 00. The length of his Administration is nine months; the reduction per month is $7,989,261 00; and for each week, $1,843,680 00; and for each day, $262,421 63; and for each hour, $10,934 23; and for each second over $3 04. That is just the rate at which the Republican Administration is sending the nation to ruin. Within each interval of the issues of the sore-headed Democratic dailies, with their chronic growl about Radical waste, the Treasury pays off $262,421 63 of our debt, and in that proportion reduces the interest thereon. While an atrabilious editor is dining at the Manhattan Club, four or five thousand dollars of the public debt are canceled; and while he is concocting a leader, showing the hopeless failure of Grant, an equal sum is redeemed.

The debt, less the amount of money in the Treasury, is in round numbers $2,453,660,000. At the rate of reduction since Grant's inauguration, including the abatement of interest, it would be fully paid in less than thirty years. We have, since Grant came in, paid nearly $8,000,000 per month; and there is every prespect that the good work will go on.

☞The talk between McDivitt of the Journal and Cremer of the guerrilla organ, the Republican, is getting to be very interesting to outsiders, Republicans outside of the guerrilla Circle. Their exposures are throwing open to broad day-light what we have always strongly suspected,—the existence of a secret political organization with Orlady at its head. Many of our good friends, and respectable party men, were deceived into the support of the interest of this guerrilla band during the late campaign. They were made to believe that the fight against a portion of the ticket was because that portion of the ticket belonged to a secret political organization, when in truth the fight against them was made by Orlady & Co. because they did not belong to and would not have any political association with the guerrilla faction. Scott was captured and used by the secret political organization because he did not love certain men who could not be influenced by Orlady, Wharton & Co., and his influence and power had the effect of making tools and fools of a good many men who had never until the late campaign been guilty of betraying their party's interests. Cremer is playing the part of Orlady's dog—barking whenever commanded to do so. His guerrilla sheet was established to work in the interests of guerrillas, and, in opposition to all who should refuse to be influenced and controlled by the controlling power of the guerrilla band. Cremer holds a very honorable position,—editor of a guerrilla organ! No wonder his wig is beginning to turn gray.

President Grant hopes to have the Darien ship canal well under way before the close of his administration, and to further this work he has ordered the Secretary of the Navy to detail a sufficient force to make the necessary surveys of the isthmus. No doubt is entertained that the treaty already negotiated will be ratified by the Colombian government, and in view of this fact that government has accorded permission to the United States to cause the requisite surveys to be made.

A number of whiskey dealers in Rondout and Kingston were arrested by Marshal Harlow a few days ago and their stock seized and places of business closed, on charges of defrauding the revenue. It appears that no stamps whatever have been used on their packages, and the revenue officer in charge of the district, it is said, has not reported a stamp sold for two years. The frauds are said to amount to $150,000.

The Red Wig Standing on Ends.

McDivitt of the Journal & American is after Cremer of the Guerrilla Organ with hot shot. It appears from the evidence offered by McDivitt and Cremer that both met other Republicans in secret caucus at Cremer's residence after the August nominating Convention, for the purpose of making arrangements to defeat a portion of the ticket nominated. But McDivitt couldn't swallow the "programme" and withdrew from any further association with the guerrilla band. Cremer, defeated by the Convention, was ready for any position and any kind of work to defeat the ticket, he was therefore selected to take a position as editor, and money was immediately subscribed to furnish him with a press—the press was bought and Mr. Cremer is running it. We give below some of McDivitt's talk from the last Journal & American:

BECOMING TROUBLESOME.

"We are certainly becoming very troublesome to the Guerrilla League, either from the fact that our expose of their secret workings is very unpalatable, or that the conspiracy formed by them to 'extinguish' the Journal & American is not proving a success. The 'organ' of this Association pays its respects to us last week in one or two short articles, only occupying four columns, in which the humble name of our Junior editor occurs—if we counted correctly—only about fifteen times. The greater part of it is devoted by the editor to an attempt, by an ingenious tissue of sophistry and misrepresentation, to cover up the proceedings of that secret conclave which assembled at his residence shortly after the August Convention.

"Mr. Cremer is an astute lawyer, and knows just when and how to lie to advantage, but his attempted denial of what happened at this so-called 'social gathering' is a piece of unblushing effrontery which we were not prepared for. We will not, however, permit him to lie himself out of the difficulty, misrepresent us, or pull the wool over the eyes of the people in any such way.

"He would have his readers believe that this was a mere 'fireside meeting' of 'prominent Republicans' for consultation in regard to the interests of Mr. Cloyd, the one-armed soldier! How mild, how amiable, how patriotic! Nothing else was said or done in this happy 'domestic circle'! If nothing was said or done in regard to the other candidates, why was it that the names of all the others were not put up in their paper? Was there nothing said or done there in regard to defeating Mr. Swoope? Nothing about defeating the crippled soldier Fouse? Was Mr. McNeil's name not mentioned; and when Mr. Cremer was suggested as a volunteer candidate for Prothonotary did no one object on the ground that 'the Democrats must have something?' Was there nothing said about defeating the gallant soldier, Lamberson, for Commissioner; and no man afterwards approached by a member of the conclave to know whether he would be a candidate? Was there no plan laid for the defeat of Mr. Richardson for Poor Director, and the election of a Democrat in his stead? If not, we repeat, why were not the names of all these gentlemen duly announced in the guerrilla paper, and why were they opposed by the 'ring?' Mr. Cremer's memory is evidently treacherous in regard to the doings of this happy 'fireside meeting.'

"We do not know how it was as to the frequency of the meetings of the 'other prominent Republicans' referred to, but we were there often enough to know that all this, and much more, did take place there. We also know that a secret political organization was represented in that conclave, and we dare any one to deny it. We should not have been at liberty to reveal what transpired there, had not our reputation been assailed, but as it has now become a question of veracity between us, we are bound to vindicate ourselves, and if in so doing we provide 'another thorn' for Mr. Cremer's 'crown,' he will bear in mind that the exposure was self-invited."

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?—In one number of the Guerrilla Organ we are accused of belonging to the so-called 'People's League,' while in the next issue it is admitted that we do not belong, but deny its existence 'through malice or for lucre.' We have said, and say again, that we know nothing of the organization referred to, except from hearsay, based on evidence very doubtful and contradictory. We do know something about an organization into the hidden mysteries of which a certain Henry R. Shearer was sought to be initiated, on a certain occasion, and as you are now the acting tool of that 'ring' we might give you some information concerning it, especially as you were not considered of sufficient importance to be admitted inside till after your defeat in Convention."

"Although neither Mr. Woods nor Dr. Shade ever positively denied the existence of such an organization, Mr. McDivitt is willing to deny it for them."—Guerrilla Organ.

"We have neither affirmed nor denied the existence of such an organization, for the very good reason that we know nothing about it, and having nothing to do with the denial of either Mr. Woods or Dr. Shade. We can not say this much in regard to every secret organization. By the way, did any person, either positively or negatively, ever deny the existence of the organization and constitution to which certain parties did not swear Henry R. Shearer? Ahem!"

Prince Alfred, on arriving at Yokahama, failed to salute the American and French commanders. He afterwards gave a reception, but both of the commanders declined to attend.—Heaving the cause the Prince gave a salute of thirteen guns to the American admiral and afterwards to the French, thus acknowledging the corn.

A scientific Swede of a statistical turn of mind has computed that the explosion of a quarter of a ton of glycerine would blow the entire territory of Sweden into the middle of the Arctic Sea. So the Rigsdag interferes and burghers parade the streets bearing banners upon which is inscribed the Swedish equivalent of "No Glycerine."

The Corporation Counsel of Washington city in regard to the case of an octoroon child who was admitted to the public schools in that city gives it as his opinion that Congress will settle the matter.

"Interviewed."

The guerrilla sheet published last week what it says was an "interview" with us—that is, with "Dad." We were "interviewed" a few days before that paper was issued and thought possibly the interview was genuine, but before we had read many lines we discovered it was all "made up"—false from beginning to end. The "interview" was signed "John"—and we did feel kind of anxious to know whether it was Senator John or some other John—or Cremer himself, that had "interviewed" us and made such a blunder of it, especially in refusing a kraut dinner, such a one as we generally have—one that attracts the whole neighborhood and brings many to the door ready to accept an invitation.—Our kraut dinners, are "some"—not a Cremer kraut dinner, consisting of a peck of kraut and a pig-tail—but a genuine one, with a feet or two of pork such as can be found any time in Red Front Grocery, a few mince pies, pumpkin custards, apple butter tarts, and sich like, and trimmings extra.—"John" refused such a dinner? No body will believe a word "John" had published.

THE National debt was reduced $7,571,454 13, during the month of November. Decrease of the debt since the 1st of March, 1869, $71,903,524 78. No comment is necessary. Figures won't lie.

Albert D. Richardson Assassinated.

NEW YORK, Nov 25th.—Albert D. Richardson, the well known correspondent of the Tribune during the rebellion, and the author of "The Field, the Dungeon and the Escape," and also of "Beyond the Mississippi," was shot this afternoon, at half past five o'clock, in the publication office of the Tribune, by Daniel McFarland, a member of the bar, the same man who attempted Richardson's life last winter on Amity street. The victim is now lying at the Astor House in a dying condition. The assassin is not to be found.

McFarland came to the Tribune office about an hour before Richardson appeared, and remained in consultation with a clerk behind a desk until his victim had reached the middle of the room, when he rapidly drew a pistol and fired, the ball taking effect in Richardson's abdomen. McFarland then made his escape.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26th.—McFarland has been arrested. He charges Richardson with eloping with his wife, and sending away his children, the youngest of whom he has not seen for two years. A letter fell into his hands in which Richardson called Mrs. McFarland his "wife," his "dear wife."

Mrs. McFarland and her husband did not live agreeably together, owing, it is said, to his utter incapacity from drink to support his family. Some six weeks ago she obtained a divorce from McFarland.

LATEST.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Mr. Richardson was married to Mrs. McFarland by Rev. Henry Ward Beecher the day before he died. He died on Thursday morning at five o'clock, in the Astor House. He was born in Franklin, Mass., in 1831. He early displayed a fondness for journalism, and was the Southern correspondent of the New York Tribune, in which he was a stockholder, in 1860; afterward acted as a correspondent for the same paper in our Eastern and Western armies; was blown up and imprisoned while attempting to pass the Vicksburg batteries; made his escape from Salisbury after a long and weary imprisonment, reached Knoxville, and embodied his experiences in "Field, Dungeon and Escape;" afterward wrote "Beyond the Mississippi," and also wrote a personal life of General Grant. Mr. Richardson's wife died when he was confined in Salisbury prison, leaving two boys. Mr. Richardson was a man of no more than ordinary abilities, and but very little early education. He, however, was very industrious, energetic and pushing.

A French cattle-fair at Roche-Posay last month was interrupted by an extraordinary incident. The stings of a swarm of insects infuriated the oxen so that they broke loose to the number of six hundred, rushing in all directions, and knocking down and trampling more than a hundred and thirty people.

Valuable Farms For Sale.

BY virtue of an order of the Orphans' Court of Blair county directed to the undersigned administrators, there will be offered for sale at the Court House in Hollidaysburg,
On Wednesday, December 8th, 1869,
All the real estate of John Wertz, late of Catherine tp., Blair county, dec'd., consisting of THREE VALUABLE FARMS, to wit:

FARM NO. 1.
A splendid tract of land (formerly owned by Walter Graham, Esq.,) beautifully located on the Huntingdon and Indiana turnpike, within one and a half (1½) miles of the Penna. canal, in Canoe Valley, Blair county, one of the best grain growing valleys in the State. This farm contains 300 ACRES of the best limestone land, perfectly clear, and in a high state of cultivation. The Buildings consist of a large Mansion House and other dwelling houses, a large bank barn, a grist mill with (water power,) and all necessary outbuildings for the farm.
An unfailing stream of pure water flows through the tract, and the house is supplied by a fountain pump with good spring water. There are two good apple orchards on the premises. There are four churches within one and a half miles, and the post office at Yellow Springs and school house within one-half mile of the property. Taken altogether, this is one of the best located farms in Blair county.

FARM NO. 2.
Situate on Clover creek, in Woodberry township, Blair county, one and a half (1½) miles east of the town of Williamsburg, containing 140 ACRES of good limestone land in good farming order. On this farm is erected a good stone Dwelling House, a stone spring house, a bank barn, a carriage house and corn crib, and all the necessary outbuildings. An uncommonly fine spring of limestone water is near the house, and beautifully enclosed with wall of cut stone. There is on this tract an excellent apple orchard in good bearing condition. Schools and churches convenient.

FARM NO. 3.
Situate on the Juniata river one mile east of Hollidaysburg, Pa., containing about 160 ACRES, on which is erected a brick Dwelling House and bank barn, together with all the necessary outbuildings. Part of this farm is a rich alluvial soil; the other part good limestone—both in good state of cultivation. On this farm is also a good apple orchard. Its proximity to the thriving town of Hollidaysburg makes this a very desirable location.
TERMS.—One-third of the purchase money to be paid on confirmation of the sale, the other two-thirds in two equal annual payments with interest, to be secured by the bond and mortgage of the purchaser.

HUNTINGDON.

[Special correspondence of The Press.]

HUNTINGDON, Nov. 27, 1869.

This town, the seat of Huntingdon county, is one of the most romantically situated, and in summer one of the prettiest towns in the State. It is built in a valley, between two high ridges of hills which mark the near approach of the Alleghany Mountains. Through the bottom of the valley run the waters of the "blue Juniata" a wide but shallow stream, crossed by three bridges.

When I visited the town the tops of the surrounding hills were capped with snow. The foliage of the trees upon their sides was of a deep russet brown, and viewed in the early morning when the sun was just becoming visible over their summits, they presented a scene not unworthy of being transferred to canvas. On every side the town seemed to be surrounded with these hills, some of them cleared and others covered with a stunted growth of pines. From the top of one of the highest of these hills I had a beautiful view of the town. The houses are nearly all confined to the left bank of the river. On the right side a hill, almost worthy of the name of mountain, raised its snow-capped head looking like some huge giant doing sentry duty over the as yet half-awakened town. Curling lazily along the base of the valley was the Juniata, flowing along so sleepily that it seemed to have partaken of the condition of the town.

Huntingdon is growing quite rapidly, and I noticed many new buildings, some of which have done credit to more pretentious places. Four newspapers are published here, and the town contains several public schools. A railroad, owned mostly, I believe, by home capital, runs between this town and Broad Top. Large quantities of ore and grain are brought to Huntingdon from the surrounding country, and shipped over that great developer of our State wealth, the Pennsylvania Railroad. Huntingdon lost a great opportunity for rapid growth when, through the non-enterprise of some of her wealthy citizens, she allowed Altoona to become the workshop of that gigantic corporation, the Pennsylvania Central. She still possesses the material for a manufacturing city, however, the Juniata and the creeks which flow into it affording numerous water-powers.

A few miles from the town are the Warm Springs, which, with proper care and fostering might be made as fashionable a summer resort as Cresson or Ephrata. The water of these springs is, I am told, fully equal to either of the above, and were they surrounded with hotels and boarding-houses, might become famous as a watering place. The romantic and healthy country around them, were they known to the public, would attract hundreds of health and pleasure seekers. I fear the good people of Huntingdon are not as enterprising as they might be.

The town is built of brick, and contains many handsome residences. The court-house is built of brick, and is a very large affair, seemingly with a great deal of room to spare. The jail is a two story structure of stone, but does not appear to be very strong—When I visited it recently it contained, besides the two murderers of the Deightal family, four other murderers. These men (two of them are mere boys, however,) are miners, and the crime has grown out of some of the "Union" difficulties which are so prolific among those who dig the "black diamonds" which underlie the soil of Pennsylvania.

Huntingdon might with propriety be called a "borough of churches."—Every denomination has its edifice, where religion is practiced in its own peculiar way. The different churches numbers some eight or nine, and tho' numerous are neither large nor imposing.

Huntingdon abounds in hotels.—These establishments do not present accommodations, at least to a transient guest, in the matter of soap and towels or even water for washing purposes, although the Juniata is close at hand. But the meals they furnish more than make up for these defects. Everything at the table is clean and comfortable. The cloth is as white as the summit of the hills which encircle the little town, and those who gather around it as jolly a set of beings as could be found anywhere. None of the conventionalities which mark the table d'hote, and which always mar the pleasure of a good meal to a plain man, are observable here. All are at ease and enjoy themselves thoroughly. The repast itself is one fit for a king. Good coffee, and cream which has not suffered from the nearness of the dairy to the river; delicious beefsteak, such as we rarely get in Philadelphia; fresh fish from the Juniata, sweet home-made bread and hot buckwheat cakes; in all these things "mine host" of Huntingdon excels, and then the landlord is polite and affable, and does everything in his power to make you comfortable.

The people of Huntingdon are kind and obliging, and do not stare at a stranger in the usual country style—They are just now, and have been for some time, unusually excited over a terrible murder, but with all this they treat a visitor to their pretty little town with courtesy and hospitality.—May they always continue thus is the earnest wish of AUDUBON.

☞The Elk Advocate tells the following: "A young man of one of our neighboring towns a few days since started deer hunting. He started in the morning, taking some lunch, and also a quart of whiskey to keep cold out and stimulate him on his way.—After traveling in the woods for some time, he imagined himself moving at a rapid rate, perhaps thirty miles from where he started. Wanting some nourishment, he looked for his lunch, but found that it was gone. As night was coming on, he thought he had better camp, concluding that he could not take the back track of the thirty miles he had traveled during the day, so he tarried for the night, and found himself next morning on the side hill, half a mile from where he started the day before.

The N. Y. Independent.

We can not but add our testimony to many testimonials, from the press and public generally, in regard to the above paper. On opening its mammoth pages you see the names of noted writers who contribute weekly to its columns, articles upon different subjects, written in a masterly manner. It is, in fact, the eagerly sought repository for the Solons of our day, and by it their views are scattered over the land. We may also add that it has an equal number of lady writers thus acknowledging the merits of both sexes alike. The Independent has entered upon its twenty first year, and we hail the day of its majority, hoping that it may long live and retain its present vigor. Address Henry C. Bowen, publisher, send $2,50, and you will get a journal for one year that you will wish you had taken before.

The Phrenological Journal.

The last number of this valuable production announces that in January the publisher will resume the octavo instead of the quarto form While we are accustomed to the broad page of the Journal, we can hail with equal delight the appearance of the smaller page, for we know we shall see the same number of well-written and useful articles upon the many topics that should interest everybody. It discourses on Ethnology, Physiology, Phrenology, Physiognomy, Biography Sociology, Science and Art, and is interspersed with much Miscellaneous matter, that is well selected. It is published monthly, at $3 a year, by S. R. Wells, 389 Broadway, New York.

The Holidays.

The season for presents, greetings and good resolutions is approaching rapidly; but we hope our readers will not forget in the pleasure incident thereto, that Henry & Co. are receiving the very articles that will be suitable for Holiday presents, and that will make your friends the happier for having greeted them. You can make up your minds that you can get anything you want at their store, and that the gentlemanly proprietors and clever clerks will be glad to see you.—Give them a call and see their immense stock of goods of all descriptions.

Root Candy.

Messrs. Summers & Reilly, of this place, are now manufacturing a Root Candy, which is highly recommended for Cold, Cough, or Pulmonary Affection. We have tried the Candy, and find it not only pleasant to the taste but very efficacious as a cure. The root from which it is made is perfectly harmless, and the Candy is the article long been needed by those who are afflicted with the above ailings. It is sold by all druggists and dealers in confectionery.

Sentenced.

At the adjourned Court which was held on Saturday last, Cornelius Kane, John Lynch, John Mulvahill, and Edward Powers, tried and convicted at the November court of muder in the second degree, were sentenced by Judge Taylor, each to seven years and eleven months separate and solitary confinement in the Western Penitentiary They were taken to Pittsburg on Monday evening last.

Lecture.

Rev. B. B. Hamlin, D. D., Presiding Elder of the Methodist Church, will deliver a lecture for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association, in the Court House on Thursday evening next. Subject: "Hugh Miller." Mr. H. is a splendid orator and his lecture will be a good one, or we will be mistaken. Admission 35 and 50 cents.

The Young Men's Christian Association conduct the religious services in the County Prison at Harrisburg. The Young Men's Christian Association of this place, have similar commendable undertakings in contemplation. To the Association at large the country is indebted for much of the impetus and efficiency that is now being given to every Christian enterprise.

The following officers have been elected by the R. W. Grand Lodge of F. and A. M. of Pennsylvania: R. W. Grand Master, Robert A. Lamberton of Harrisburg; R. W. Deputy Grand Master, Samuel C. Perkins; R. W. Senior Grand Warden, Alfred B. Potter; R. W. Junior Grand Warden, Robert Clark; R. W. Grand Treasurer, Peter Williamson; R. W. Grand Secretary, John Thornson.

LORILLARD'S "EUREKA" SMOKING TOBACCO is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome muslin bags, in which orders for Meerchaum Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S "Yacht Club" SMOKING TOBACCO classed by all who consume it as the "finest of all." It is made of all the choicest leaf grown; it is anti-nervous in its effects, the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and in weight, hence one pound will last as long as 2 of ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also pack orders every day for first class Meerchaum Pipes. Try it and convince yourselves it is all it claims to be, "The Finest of All."

LORILLARD'S CENTURY CHEWING TOBACCO. This brand of Fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS have now been in general use in the United States over 110 years and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them; they are sold by respectable Jobbers almost everywhere.

Teachers' Institute.

THE HUNTINGDON COUNTY TEACHERS' INSTITUTE for the present year, will be held in the Court House, in Huntingdon, commencing on MONDAY, DECEMBER 20TH, at two o'clock, P. M., and closing FRIDAY, DECEMBER 24TH.

The Teachers, School Directors and Friends of Education are respectfully invited to attend.

Prof. S. G. BOYD, Superintendent of York county, will be present nearly all the time; and give instruction in Arithmetic, Geography, &c.

Prof. EDWARD BROOKS, Principal of the Millersville State Normal School, will lecture on different subjects during the two days and evenings he has consented to be with us.

Mrs. R. H. SHOEMAKER, Teacher of Elocution in Philadelphia, will give instruction in Reading and Elocution, and will give one or two evening entertainments.

It is expected that the Principal, Teachers and a portion of the pupils of the Cassville Orphans' School will again aid and cheer us by their presence and assistance.

The Officers and the Committee on Permanent Certificates will be elected on Monday afternoon.

On Monday evening the following Topics will be discussed:

1st. How can the grade of our schools be advanced?

2d. Would a law compelling children to attend school be beneficial?

Mr. MICHINER of Porter, J. R. BAKER of Springfield, and SHEEDER of Franklin, are requested to open the first topic; and Mr. TAYLOR of Huntingdon, CALDWELL of Morris, and SHOCK of West, are requested to open the second.

Thursday will be Directors' day.—The following topics will be discussed:

1st. Should salaries be uniform in each district? If not in what way should they be graded?

2d. Can graded Schools be established in rural districts to a good advantage?

3d. Is it desirable to have legislation compelling the schools to be kept open six months in the year?

Directors CREMER of Huntingdon and EWING of Franklin, are requested to open the first Topic; Directors WEAVER of Huntingdon, GRAFIUS of Penn, and BRUMBAUGH of Shirley, are requested to open the second; and Directors WINTRODE of Penn, ROSS of Walker, and BAUMAN of Mapleton, the third.

It is expected that several Essays will be read by teachers during the sessions of the Institute.

Teachers, we most earnestly ask your co-operation in making our Institute a successful one.

School Directors of Huntingdon county, we ask you to use your influence to have the teachers in your employ attend. Many of you have already proved yourselves warm friends of the County Institute; and though some of you think that granting the teachers time to attend is robbing the children, yet either you or the leading educational men in the State are mistaken in this matter. It is only those who can appreciate the difference between right and wrong teaching—only those who are permitted to see the rich fruits of the former and the blighting influence of the latter—who can rightly estimate the work done by the County Institute.

It would baffle the arithmetician's skill to compute the loss sustained by the children of this county through wrong systems of instruction. It was to afford some remedy for this widespread evil; it was to present to the minds of young and inexperienced teachers who are often anxious to engage in the business of teaching without any special preparation, some conception of the great and responsible work in which they are engaged, and to arouse a general interest in the cause of education, that the County Institute was established by law.

We ask you then as friends and guardians of the Common Schools to grant your Teachers the time, and urge them, if necessary, to come; for if you have any that need urging, they are the ones that most need to be present.

Teachers, on their arrival in town, will report immediately at the Court House, have their names enrolled, and receive tickets. All teachers, and all who are preparing to teach, will receive tickets and be regarded as members of the Institute, on entering their names on the roll.

Boarding can be obtained at the hotels for $1.00 per day.

UNFAILING EYE PRESERVERS!

Lazarus & Morris'

CELEBRATED

PERFECTED SPECTACLES

AND EYE GLASSES.

The large and increasing sales of these

is a sure proof of their usefulness. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses viz.: the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our CELEBRATED PERFECTED SPECTACLES by the residents of this locality

With a firm knowledge of the value of the assertion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.

Mr. AARON STEWARD,

Watchmaker and Jeweller,

Has always on hand a full assortment, suitable to every difficulty.

We take occasion to notify the public that we employ no peddlers, and to caution them against those pretending to have our goods for sale. je30-tf

GET THE BEST

READY ROOFING,

Suitable for all Buildings, Dwellings, Barns, Churches Factories, &c., and for all climates; equally adapted to flat or steep roofs, and can be applied by any ordinary workman.

THE READY ROOFING

Is more durable than tin, and does not cost one-half as much. It is cheaper than shingles, far more durable, and fire-proof. It is made of the heaviest fabric ever used for the purpose, and is put up in rolls ready for adjustment to any part of the world. Send for circular and samples (sent free.)

We also manufacture

GRANITE CEMENT,

For repairing all kinds of leaky roofs, chimneys, sky lights, &c. This Roofing Cement forms a permanent adhesive coating over the whole surface of all roofs, whether tin, shingle or composition, completely closing up leakages, and being composed largely of ground granite, wheels sets and hands on, and soon becomes an artificial slate or stone covering.

ROOF PAINT,

For coating Tin and all kinds of metal and composition roofs. It will not run, crack, or peel off, but form a permanent and perfect protection, wherever placed. It is furnished at half the cost, and possesses twice the durability of the common oil paints used for such purposes.

County rights for sale.

SOLDIERS' HEIRS, ATTENTION!

The act of Congress approved March 2, 1867, gives to Heirs of Soldiers who died prisoners of war, for the time the soldier was so held a prisoner, at the rate of twenty-five cents per day, to be paid in the following order: 1st. To the widow, if unmarried; 2d. To the children; 3d. To the parents, to both jointly if they are living; if either is dead, to the survivor; 4th. To the brothers and sisters.

COMMUTATION FOR RATIONS,

The act of February 28, 1867, provides for the refunding of the $300 Commutation Money, where the same person was again drafted, and was required to enter the service or furnish a substitute.

DISCHARGED SOLDIERS.

The act of March 2, 1867, also makes provisions for the payment of the to such soldiers as have accidentally lost their discharges.

All persons having any claims under any of the above mentioned Acts, or any other kind of claim against the United States or State Governments, can have them promptly collected, by addressing the undersigned. Information and advice cheerfully given to soldiers or their friends, free of charge.
